New York Outfielder Is Happy That He Escaped Boston Red Sox Baseball Outfit

WOLTER THANKFUL THAT HIGHLANDERS GAVE HIM A CHANCE

Gardener Sure He Could Not Have Made Good In Boston.

WAS SHIFTED TOO MUCH ON HUB TEAM

Now That He Has Steady Berth He Says His Game Shows Improvement.

By "SENATOR."

Harry Wolter, bruised and banged by many tumultuous tumbles on the turf trying to steal bases for the Highlanders, thanks his stars every time he recalls his release from the Boston Red Sox to the New York Kilties, and when you look at him in the outfield for Hal Chase's wonders, you are looking at a happy youngster. Wolter is one of the very best gardeners in the business, and he says he never would have been but for John I. Taylor, the Red Sox

Wolter is still in the game, but is suffering from a number of bruises on his hips from sliding to bases. However, he says that he is in the game to

Schaefer at Testimonial.

Herman Schaefer, the Nationals mighty slugger in the pinches, went to Philadelphia today to play in the exhibition game given as a testimonial for Harry Davis, the Athletics' veteran

Schaefer will return tomorrow morning and be right on hand to do his best against his old teammates, the Detroit Tigers.

Hugh High got his first workout in a National uniform this morning at the Florida avenue park. He was used to pitch against the batters and some of his curves looked very good. High is a well-built chap and looks able to hold his own with anybody. He has some wide curves and fair control. Jimmy McAleer will continue to work him mornings against the batters and see if he has class enough to warrant his use in finishing a game for the Nationals. If he looks good enough, he may be sent but to succeed some twirler getting his bumps at the hands of the enemy.

Elberfeld to Play Soon.

Kid Elberfeld is almost ready to play ball again. As soon as he says the word he will be sent to second base. unless Manager McAleer decides that Bill Cunningham should have a longer trial at that position. Since coming nome Cunningham has hit the ball hard, though not always safely, and he has picked up in his fielding to a great ex-cker of the Highlanders, will not be in the game today. He is not even with the team, but is resting at home in New York after an attack of erysipelas. It is doubtful if he will play for several weeks yet. He left Cleveland for New weeks yet. He left Cleveland for New York when his team went to St. Louis, and has been under the care of physicians ever since.

"Big Ed" Sweeney, the crack backstop, is out of the game with a broken thumb on his right hand, a similar injury to that which kept "Gabby" Street out of the game for three weeks.

Jack Knight has a sore arm, and can hardly throw across the diamond. He is playing first base in the absence of Ray Fisher, one of the most successful pitchers with the Highlanders, went home from Philadelphia this morning, a sufferer from an attack of grip. His absence from the firing line means sev-eral victories for the Yankees.

TEAM HANDS SOX TWO NICE GAMES

Six Thousand Sweltering Fans Watch Careful Presentation By the Nationals on Holiday, and Both Scores Are Close Enough to Create Anxiety.

Knowing that the visitors had a shower tumbled upon their heads as if chance and they themselves had but a mere tumble of a place to land down in the Nationals carefully presented the Nationals carefully presented the Red Sox with two victories on the holi- and read them

The morning game ran along for ten innings when the enemy nosed ahead, 6 to 5, but the afternoon's contest Milan, cf ... stopped with nine sessions, the Nationals being once more on the short end of a 5 to 4 score. More than 5,000 fans and fanesses roasted on the unsheltered Henry.lb. seats, while the slaughters were being enacted on the field below.

is playing first base in the absence of Chase. In the morning Tom Hughes allowed should have been right at the plate to take Conroy's throw to catch the flying Carrigan, the man with a chin like the rock of Gibraltar. Just that little flossy stuff tossed away the battle which was hard-fought down to the very end.

Bobby Groom allowed his wits to wander for the veriest fraction of a wander for the veriest fraction of a second in the last of the ninth in the afternoon, and "Sea Lion" Hall's quick toss to Wagner nailed Groom as he dreamed. It was the third out, choking off a batting rally which had brought in two runs already.

Hope in Johnson.

In the afternoon it was generally expected that Walter Johnson would tame those red-hosed youngsters from the land of beans-but he didn't. Perhaps it wasn't all his fault, either, and then again he didn't seem very strong, as the game neared its end. The sun in the box seats was pretty hot, and the fans all sympathized with the big fel lans all sympathized with the big fel-low, though he was being paid to stay there, and they had to pay to do it. The Nationals had a two-run lead on the Sox until the sixth inning, for Milan had scored in the first session on Le-livelt's solid, man's-size biff to center, and in the third Conroy's teaser to Willams allowed Street to score. This was brought down in the sixth to a one-run lead, when Yerkes singled to center and scored on Lewisé double to left. But even at that the Nationals were ahead, and should have copped it. Wagner opened the ninth with a single to right and Williams walked. It looked to most folks that Johnson's toss of Nunamaker's burt had beat him but to most folks that Johnson's tos Nunamaker's bunt had beat him. Jack Sheridan said otherwise, and the bags were filled when Larry Gardner showed up in place of Wood. As in the forenoon, he was there with the goods, driving a single to center, scoring Wag-ner and Williams. Hooper sacrificed, Yerkes drove one at McBride whose throw got Nunamaker at the pan. Tris Speaker ambled, Johnson preferring to take a chance with Lewis. Foolish chance! Lewis doubled to those

Last of Ninth Stirring. Thrills in bunches were provided in the last of the ninth. McBride hit to left for a single and pilfered as Cunningham was fanning. Schaefer, hitting for Henry, gave Wagner a chance to make a bad throw. Miller ran for the comedian, only to be forced by "Gabby" Street. Yerkes tried to double up our rising young backstop and tossed to the derrick. McBride rushing over.

Kid Elberfeld, who had failed in the morning, came up then for Johnson and doubled to right, Alnsmith, running for Street, tallied on the drive. Cheers tore open the sky, and it rained within five minutes. The fans became apoplectic. It was had for them to be like that. However, as Elberfeld's ankle is still lame, that tall, slim greyhound of a person. Robert Groom, was sent out to person Robert Groom, was sent out to run for him. Yes, it was funny, for within a minute Hall, who had relieved Wood, swung around and caught the tall toothpick lad off the bag with a heave to Wagner. Then everybody hustled away from the unsheltered seats for a summer
